

2021 Complaints by Month & Gender

The following graphs show four (4) different complaint types by month and gender. The complaint types are Delinquent, Unruly, Dependent & Neglected and Other. Delinquent complaints refer to any allegation that has been defined as delinquent per TCA code. These are offenses that are crimes for both children and adults. Unruly complaints refer to actions that are illegal simply because the alleged offender is a juvenile, such as truancy, violation of curfew, and minor in possession of tobacco. Runaway children are also counted here. Dependency and Neglect complaints refer to allegations in which the children are victims of abuse or neglect by their parent or guardian. Other complaints look at issues involving custody, visitation, school admissions, and traffic offenses not considered delinquent per TCA Code.
